BRUCE MACKENZIE LANDSCAPE
AWARD WINNER 2021

SUTTON-FORREST GROWERS GARDEN
NETTLETONTRIBE

“The bricklaying pattern at Sutton Forest Growers Garden elevates the use of masonry in a creative way. It displays both solidity and porosity and it’s compelling in the way that it allows a partial view through the wall to the framed garden within, and from within looking out. The sense of delicate filigree will have a far-reaching influence on landscape designs.”

COMPETITION OVERVIEW

This award was previously part of the Horbury Hunt Award. In 2013, this award evolved to include concrete masonry. We named the award in 2014 after renowned Australian landscape architect Bruce Mackenzie.

Bruce Mackenzie was responsible for some of Australia's greatest landscaping projects which include Ku-ring-gai and Glebe Bicentennial Parks and the landscape construction of Sydney (Kingsford-Smith) International Airport.

Spanning over five decades, Mackenzie has been commissioned to design numerous recognised Australian landmarks and has won various design awards, which highlights his great contribution to the landscape design community.
